MAY, 1960

John M. Young II '28 Becomes President Of Chapter Alumni

John M. Young II '28 of New York City, the new president of the chapter's alumni organization, is a leading radio and TV writer and producer who has had long experience in the affairs of Alpha Delta Phi.

He has been the Cornell chapter's representative on the Fraternity's national Executive Council since 1949 and served two terms, in 1952 and 1953, as its chairman. He has been an alumni trustee of the chapter for a number of years and is a member of a prominent two-generation Cornell Alpha Delta family.

A Strong Family

His father was the late George H. Young '00 of Binghamton, N. Y. His uncles in Cornell Alpha Delta Phi include: C. V. P. "Tar" Young '99, Cornell's well known professor emeritus of physical education, and the late William Young '91, J. Paul Young '94 and Edward Young '94. Cousins in the chapter's membership include: Holland Beeber '25 of the Miami (Fla.) Daily News and Edwin P. Young Jr. '31 of the Providence (R. I.) Journal.

All of us, probably, regularly see or hear radio and TV shows which John has written or produced. Many are "one shot" productions, but most of his work has been done in the creation of serials and special series, the best known and longest run one being "The Verdict is Yours," broadcast daily over the Columbia system's TV network.

Works Close To Library

Most of his work is done in Room 1404 at 516 Fifth Avenue, not far from 42nd Street in Manhattan, where he has an unlisted phone and many files to supplement reference data he seeks out in the nearby New York Public Library. Home is on Underhill Road in suburban Scarsdale. Daughter Virginia will be graduated from Skidmore College next month and son, John M. III, is a sophomore at Franklin and Marshall College.

JOHN M. YOUNG II '28

John started his career on Wall Street with Hemphill Noyes & Company but within a year had been attracted, due to his writing ability, to join the well known advertising agency of Batten, Barton, Durstine & Osborn. After a brief period in New York City, he took increasingly important roles in the agency's Chicago and Minneapolis offices. His ability as a script writer caused him to switch to the National Broadcasting company in Chicago for two years before 1938 when his writing schedule recommended he become a free lance writer and producer. . . a role that has kept him busy ever since. He returned to New York City in 1940.

Joslyn A. Smith '38 is assistant vice-president of The Shawinigan Water & Power Co., Montreal, Quebec. Jos is married and has two children: David C., 16, and Barbara J., 12. His home address is 156 Strathcona Drive, Town of Mount Royal, Quebec, Canada.

Good Reports Heard At May 7th Meeting Of Chapter Trustees

Officers and new trustees of the chapter's alumni organization, Alpha Delta Phi at Cornell Inc., were elected at its annual meeting, Saturday, May 7, preceding initiation ceremonies at the chapter house for 12 new members.

The chapter's good condition was reflected in the reports to the meeting made by alumni and undergraduate officers.

Bailliere Re-elected

John M. Young II '28 of New York City was elevated to the presidency of the association following tradition, after serving two terms in the vice presidency role while George D. Beck '34 of Philadelphia headed the organization. Marion V. "Bud" Bailliere Jr. '31 of Ithaca was re-elected to the secretary-treasurer responsibility.

Because a combination of circumstances prevented attendance at the meeting of Brother Beck, who returns from a European trip next week, and of Brother Young, who was in attendance at a funeral of a relative, James E. Rice '30 of Ithaca presided at the meeting.

Begin 4-Year Terms

Eugene W. Goodwillie '27 of New York City; Walter Snickenberger (Dartmouth '46) (Registrar of the University and the chapter's new faculty adviser), Charles C. West '61 (current undergraduate president) of Manitowoc, Wis., and Brother Beck were elected to serve four-year terms, until 1964, on the organization's board of trustees.

Frederick S. Brown '36 of Ithaca was elected to fill-out the term, until 1962, of William Arnold '38 of Weston, Conn., who was required to resign recently from the board.

Continuing as members of the trustee board, previously elected, are: Retiring 1963: Theodore H. Booth '25, Lewiston, N. Y.; John W. Cobb '35, Chevy Chase, Md.;

Report from the President

By CHARLES C. WEST III '60,
Chapter President

Brother Stan Watkins, our fall term chapter executive, turned over the house to me in excellent shape. Unfortunately, I have not been able to maintain it in such fine condition. Three insoluble problems face the chapter right now: the pledge class, the condition of the house plant, and the attitude of the brotherhood. These problems will probably develop into a destroying force which will very soon completely obliterate Alpha Delta Phi at Cornell University.

Finds Pledge Class Miserable

Last fall, Brother John Keller persuaded the brotherhood to rush this year. The pledge class he has presented the house is, by and large, a miserable lot. There are far too many of them, twenty-six in all, and their grades are of an over-all quality that indicates that the great majority of them will be able to complete their undergraduate studies in only four or five years. At least a dozen or so are active in University athletics and other campus affairs; this situation has limited last month's profit on the house sign-up beer concession to only $118.

Too Many Sports Cars

But perhaps the most significant indication of disastrous times ahead for Alpha Delt is the fact that only four or five men in the group possess sports cars. In order to prevent such a dynamically unwholesome crowd from ever in the future sneaking into the house, I shall propose at the last house meeting in May that Alpha Delta Phi at Cornell incorporate into her chapter by-laws legislation prohibiting rushing.

Compounding the problems created by the miserable pledge class is the terrible condition of the house plant and property. Brother Bob McClellan has been able to rejuvenate the furnace and heating system to the point that heat now reaches the back rooms on the second floor. This error is augmented by the fact that a substantial saving on each month's oil bill is being realized. House Manager Bob Marciniak and his staff are constantly destroying the layers of dust on the furniture and the cobwebs on the ceilings that remind one so much of home, and the nauseous odors of floor wax and linseed oil are all too frequently detectable. However, there is one area in the house that reminds one of older and better days around the club. This is the area immediately adjacent to the first floor lavatory where the plumbing has not been functioning properly.

A far more serious problem than either the pledge class or the house's condition is the present attitude of the brotherhood. Too many men seem bent on finishing their college studies successfully. Park Nobel was the only brother to make Tau Beta, but a number of others came too close to being elected to the senior scholastic honoraries. It is feared that the house average and standing will improve this spring, but there is hope that the brotherhood will rally just before exams and take the less disgraceful path.

Also, the social outlook of the fraternity is changing for the worse. Most of the brothers are still on their feet at the close of each party, and potato chips and ginger ale are available at all social functions. The mid-week, all-night drinking bouts are almost extinct, and the attractions of Syracuse and Utica no longer draw Alpha Delt patrons. The spirit of cooperation among the brothers has grown to obnoxious proportions, and the house officers do not enjoy the independence of action or labor that once characterized their elected positions. Further comments on the chapter's depressing attitudes would only emphasize the fact that the Fraternity can not for much longer survive here at Cornell.

The futility of any further action or contemplation of action hastens the closing of my message. However, I welcome any suggestions from alumni or other sources.

William L. Cressman '27 of 401 Shady Avenue, Pittsburgh, Pa., is assistant general manager-sales of Jones & Laughlin Steel Corp. Bill has been in the steel industry ever since graduation, having worked for Armco Steel Corp. from 1928-56. In 1953, he was director of the Iron & Steel Division, National Production Administration, Department of Commerce, Washington, D. C.

Formal Rushing Ends With 23 New Members

Under the capable direction of John C. Keller '61, who was this year's rushing chairman, Alpha Delta Phi emerged "rockets up." But what, you may ask, is this term "rockets up"?

If a boy is a gentleman; if he has a mind of his own and can follow as well as lead; if he is studious, truthful and temperate; if he has patience and exercises discretion and above all has an aptness for learning, then this boy is "rockets up." With that introduction, we are proud to present our pledges:

College of Arts & Sciences: Richard Wayne Abel, Morro Bay, Calif., who is active in the Cornell Dramatic Club, Octagon and the Widow; Richard Dwight Culver, Kenilworth, Ill.; Charles Fotte Dickson, Evanston, Ill., who rows in the first freshman heavyweight shell; William Cecil Jones, Philadelphia, Pa.; Ezra Pascal Mager, New York City, who sings with Cayuga's Waiters, a campus singing group; Frederick Haskell Parkin, Jr., Pittsburgh, Pa., a member of the Frosh House Committee and Secondary Schools Committee; and Dennis Joseph Prindle, New York, N. Y.

Chemical Engineering: John Martin Beeman, Grand Rapids, Mich., coxswain for the freshman varsity crew; Robert Frank Rikowski, Linden, N. J., who also is a member of the first freshman heavyweight crew; James Cornelius Richards, Solon, Ohio, a member of the freshman fencing team and the Newman Club; and Richard Elliot Taylor, Athens, Ohio.

Mechanical Engineering: Robert Talbert Blakely, Wayne, Pa., who rows with the first freshman lightweight crew; Billy Joe Bowling, Cincinnati, Ohio; Christian Monroe Riker, Ardmore, Pa., who was on the freshman soccer team and is now on the rifle and lacrosse teams; and Robert Kenneth Wood, Ardmore, Pa., a sophomore who sings in the Glee Club and is on the varsity lacrosse team.

Electrical Engineering: Preston Robinson Clark, Jr., New Hartford, N. Y., who is out for the freshman lacrosse team; Samuel Satterly Durland VI, La Vale, Md., a member of the dorm council and a ham radio operator; and Joe Robert McAfee,

And there you have it — ROCKETS UP!

"Missing" Brothers Found by Neff '37

We are grateful to Charles Y. Neff '37 of Painesville, Ohio, for supplying us with the occupations and addresses of two brothers listed as "lost" in the February issue of The Cayugan. He reports that R. G. Miller III '38 is associated with the Parker-Hanniflin Corp., 17325 Euclid Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio, and that George B. Bayly '39 is vice-president of Ohio Boxboard Co., 1400 Chippewa St., Rittman, Ohio.

Deceased Alumni

The chapter reports with deep regret the passing of three alumni brothers.

William Edson Howard '83 of DeLand, Fla., died September 6, 1959. Born on September 26, 1861, he was Cornell's second oldest alumnus at the time of his death.

Lowell Mason '14 died February 10 at the Veterans Home & Hospital in Rocky Hill, Conn. In recent years he had been with Hincks Bros. & Co., Bridgeport, Conn. He was a founder and later a director and production manager of The Connecticut Electric Manufacturing Co.

Recent word received from the widow of Clarence Britton Dodge '05 informs us of his death in Pasadena, Calif., in May, 1957. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Pearl M. Dodge of Los Angeles, Calif., and his son, Dr. Douglas R. Dodge of Pasadena, Calif.

James E. Rice, Jr. '30 is executive director of the Health Association of Tompkins County, with headquarters in Ithaca, and is also a trustee of the Tompkins County Memorial Hospital. In 1958, Jim was elected to a four-year term as justice of the peace in his home town of Trumansburg, north of Ithaca.

Norwegian Exchange Student Views Cornell Fraternities

By BAARD R. STOKKE

Baard Richard Stokke is a Norwegian Fulbright student who has stayed with us for the academic year 1959-60. He received his B.A. in political science from the University of Oslo, and will receive his M.A. in international economic relations from Cornell this spring. Next year, he will go to Harvard, where he will work for his Ph.D. in international economics. On May 2, 1960, Baard was initiated into the brotherhood of Alpha Delta Phi.

What is it a foreigner most invariably associates with an American fraternity?

Before I undertake to answer that question, it should be made clear that fraternities, as they are known on the American college campus, are almost unknown and nonexistent in other parts of the world. True, European universities have their student clubs and brotherhoods, but these have nothing in common with the American fraternity.

A European View

Fraternity, to a European, implies an association where the members live together, more for the sake of personal comfort than in order to work toward a common goal, as, for instance, a good academic record. It is also thought of as a drinking place, a party place. In short, one has the impression that it provides the student with the best environment for doing exactly what he is not supposed to do while in school—play.

For these reasons it is a pleasant surprise for a European to see that several of the above-mentioned rather negative factors are completely non-existent. Instead of the bad pre-formed picture, one is more likely to find a place which provides the student with "a home away from home." Having had the opportunity to observe for almost a year, what may be considered to be typical representatives of American fraternity members, I can safely assert that the fraternity as such has positive features to a degree that far outweighs the negative.

Appreciates "Help"

Take, as an example, the young freshman that enters the fraternity as a pledge. Almost immediately he is assigned to a sponsor, a "big brother." Normally, this will be an upperclassman, or a graduate in the same field he is studying. In this way the pledge is given a unique opportunity to seek advice and help from an experienced student who may well be able to guide him around the difficulties he himself encountered in his first years at the university. Furthermore, by associating closely with a group of from 50 to 60 young men, he will have to learn to accept other peoples' advantages, and, what is perhaps more difficult, their deficiencies, at the same time that he is being made aware of his own rather undesirable traits, if any. As modern society today, more than any other time in the past, implies the concept of cooperation, teamwork, and group living, it is hard to see how the well-run fraternity can fail to prepare the young man excellently for this.

Members Too Secure

True, here are the more desirable features. It would not be human, however, if there were none of the adverse kind, some of which perhaps make the fraternity more pleasant to live in. Basically, my chief objection against the fraternal association is that it tends to provide its members with too much security. Take the young man entering the house; he is immediately given a set of friends that are prepared to do everything possible in order to like him. They will give him parties, if necessary provide him with female company, and generally see to it that he has a good time. Unfortunately, in later life, these are all things he will have to work for. Friends, an agreeable social atmosphere, and so on are all things that do not come easy, and very little of this is given by society.

Also, no matter how one looks at it, a fraternity is normally composed of young men from more or less the same social background, with the same pre-formed philosophy. Even if the young man entering the fraternity should have ideas that do not conform with the general philosophy of the group, pressure will admittedly not be brought on him, but he may find that he will have a very hard time being accepted if he consistently sticks to his own set of ideas.

Remember Him?

The house janitor half a century ago was William Wilson, who worked for Alpha Delta from the turn of the century until 1917. We hope some of the older alumni will get a kick out of seeing old Bill again. Does anyone know anything about the dog? Our thanks go to J. D. Edson '20 of Norwalk, Conn., for sending in the above picture.

However, as stated above, it can safely be asserted that a fraternity will do a young man more good than bad. It has a lot to offer its members, most of which is given away in the form of the members' own contribution; that is, by contributing he will learn to value the organization he is in, and appreciate more the advantages it gives him.

Richard W. Wambach '53 of 12 Modelane, Rochester 18, N. Y., sends word that he is a production engineer at Eastman Kodak Co. Among his many activities, Dick finds time to serve as a deacon of the Twelve Corners Presbyterian Church and as a member of the Cornell Club of Rochester secondary schools committee. He is married to the former Ann Stutts, who attended the Cornell School of Nursing, and has two daughters: Catherine, who is fair, and two-year-old Susan.

House Adapts Itself To Modern Trends In Spring Rushing

By J. C. Keller,
Rushing Chairman

The concept of the fraternity has changed considerably in the last few years here at Cornell. It was just such a change that presented Alpha Delt with one of its biggest problems in rushing this year. Could the house adapt to this changing notion of the fraternity which dictates that the academic side of college life is of increasing importance, and that the new students each year be much more intent in their work and perhaps less interested or have less time for the social opportunities of a fraternity? To make such an adaption meant that the brothers themselves would have to realize this changing attitude. The pledges which we would therefore want would be those who desire the modified social advantages of a fraternity and at the same time be academically oriented.

We feel that if any of you were to visit the house and see our pledges, you would be more than satisfied and would realize that we did meet the aforementioned challenge. Rushing in the freshman rooms was excellent and great care was taken to make accurate character judgments in the short time allotted. Some of the comments written on the backs of the room cards after each visit illustrate, perhaps, the care which went into each meeting: "His grades are excellent . . ."; " . . . intelligent, shy, sensitive, has good social background, well known on campus, has good outlook on life and his work."; " . . . This boy has genuine talent. He has written reams of stories and plays and even a novel. He's quiet, sensitive, and easy to make friends with."

Of the 56 fraternities at Cornell, there were only three that took good classes, and Alpha Delta is on top of that threesome. We received comments from all over the campus on the quality of our pledge class. The house is now in excellent shape for next year's rushing campaign, and with hard work and good leadership, we feel that Alpha Delt will have little trouble in maintaining its position of supremacy on the Hill.

Introducing Walt Snickenberger Alpha Delt's New House Advisor

After losing our faculty adviser, Prof. Ted Watson, to private industry, the house was in a quandry. In our efforts to fill his position, however, we have met with unlimited success. We are at this time, therefore, very proud to present to all of you our new faculty adviser, Walter Snickenberger (Dartmouth '46), Registrar of Cornell University.

Walt has had such an interesting and diverse past that we thought we would devote this space to a short biographical sketch. His home town is Hanover, N. H., which is also the location of his alma mater. He was graduated magna cum laude in 1946 and two years later received the Master's degree in business administration. At Dartmouth, he played varsity football, was captain of the baseball team and a Phi Beta Kappa student.

WALTER SNICKENBERGER

While an undergraduate, Walt enrolled in the Navy's V-12 officers training program. He was assigned to Parris Island, S. C., for Marine Corps basic training and from there went to oriental language schools at University of Colorado and Oklahoma A. & M.

With the end of World War II, Walt entered private industry in Boston. It was during this time that he met the girl who was to become his wife. She was then working as a nurse in Hanover. Two weeks after their marriage in 1950, Walt was called back into service and was assigned as an infantry instructor at officer candidate school at Quantico, Va.

Before coming to Cornell in 1952 as assistant to President Deane W. Malott, Walt was in the sales divisions of American Sugar Refining Co. and F. S. Webster Co. of Cambridge, Mass. He was appointed Registrar of the University in 1957. It is obvious that this is the kind of work for which he was best suited, for in the few short years that he has been a member of the University administration he has risen to great stature. The brothers are indeed happy to welcome Walt as our new faculty adviser.

Doering '62 Receives Scholarship Award

A pledge scholarship improvement award, made from a small amount of cash remaining after a dinner held for graduates, families and friends at the house last June, was made to Otto Charles Doering III in November. Otto is a sophomore whose scholastic record during the second term of his freshman year showed the highest improvement of all the pledges over his first term during the year 1958-59.

A number of brothers of the Class of '58 who were pledges together during 1954-55 now plan to continue the award as the "Class of 1958 Award." The award will be financed from small yearly contributions made by each member of the class. From cash on hand, the brothers have established a Class of 1958 Fund for Alpha Delta Phi, to be used for educational purposes. Plans also include such possibilities as eventually establishing a small Alpha Delta Phi collection in the new Graduate Research Library now being built.

The fund is not intended to take the place of alumni dues but is to consist of small additional contributions from members of the class. The purpose is to contribute to the academic aspect of the university through the fraternity system in the belief that this is a matter which deserves considerable attention.

Announcements of Marriages and Births

A number of weddings during 1959 increased the ranks of old married folks among our younger alumni.

Marianne and Hank Hubbard '58 were married last June and are now living in Grosse Pointe Woods, Mich. Dale and Don Marshall '59 headed for San Francisco after their summer wedding in Washington. Two student couples came to Ithaca after their weddings: Judy and Bob Hazlett, and Jan and Bill Dring. Other 1959 weddings included Sally and Dave Vrooman '59, Penny and Bob Nelson '59, and Marjann and Bob Dodge '59. The Dodges are presently on the West Coast with the Navy. Gigi and John Brooke '57 are now in Omaha, Neb., while Janet and Ted Olt '58 have moved to Alcoa, Tenn. Next wedding is that of Chuck Yoh '58, scheduled for this June.

Most recent parents are the Yearleys and the Edgars. Doug '58 and Anne, along with Sandy (aged 1½), greeted Doug, Jr. in March. They have all moved from Connecticut to Scotch Plains, N. J., where Doug has taken a new job as metallurgical engineer with Phelps Dodge Copper Products Corp. Suzanne joined Judy and Jim Edgar '59 in late January and they are all living in Ithaca until this summer when they will head for Wilmington, Del., and duPont.

Other present Ithaca residents include Nancy and Dave Brown '59 and one-year-old Karen; and Maria and "Whitey" Zamelis '59, parents of Bobby, who is going on two. The Browns' immediate future lies with the Army, while the Zamelis family will soon leave for New York City and the Cornell Medical College. Les and T. C. Reed '55 are now in Pleasanton, Calif. Their daughter, Carolyn, was born last July. Sandy and Ben Bole '57 are the parents of Ben IV, 2½, and Kathleen, 1. Shirley and Bob Howard '57 have one child.

Everett B. Cooke '16 of 456 Fairfield Road, Wyckoff, N. J., works as an engineer at Process Heating Co., Paramus N. J. Ev has been active in civic affairs, having served as a member of the local Board of Zoning Adjustment from 1946-55 and as its chairman in 1955.

News from Alpha Delta Alumni

J. Robert Lynch '42 is a Justice of the New York State Supreme Court. After leaving Cornell, Bob attended Manhattan College and Albany Law School. He has been an attorney since 1948, Republican chairman for Lewis County from 1952-58, and last year was elected district attorney for the County. He is married and has four daughters. Bob's address is Lewis County Courthouse, Lowville, N. Y.

Former Big Red Varsity crew man Richard H. Dyer, Jr. '59 has turned in his crew shirt for a white jacket. Rick, who majored in zoology on the Hill, is now hard at work as a medical student at the Cornell Medical College in New York City. He can be reached at his home address, 445 East 69th Street, New York 21, N. Y.

William H. Ferguson '52 of 439 North 24th Street, La Crosse, Wisc., writes that he is a sales engineer and assistant sales manager of The Trane Co. Bill is married and has a two-year-old son, William M.

After many years as an engineer with the U. S. Government, Thomas H. Farrington '10 is retired and living at 128 Merrill Avenue, Decatur, Ga. As a builder, Tom has many monumental Federal buildings to his credit. He is a member of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers and is a Professional Engineer in the State of Florida.

Brothers passing through Lincoln, Neb., would do well to stop in at the Hotel Cornhusker, where John A. Brooks '57 is food and beverage manager. John's home address in Lincoln is 3332 L Street.

Henry S. "Put" Putman is one of those lucky men who have retired and are now basking in the Florida sunshine. Put was with American Can Co. right from the time of his graduation until 1949. His address is 340 Jackson Drive, Sarasota, Fla.

Alan Brown '50 has made the big jump from advertising to medicine. After spending three years as an advertising account executive with the Rochester, N. Y. firm of Rumrill Co., Inc. Alan entered the University of Rochester School of Medicine in 1953. He received his MD in 1957 and is currently enrolled as resident physician at Stanford (Calif.) Medical Center. And to show just what a big jump it is that Alan has made, he is the author of a recent article in the New England Journal of Medicine entitled "Myocardial Infarction Associated with Pregnancy" which seems about as far away as you can get from writing snappy advertising slogans. Alan is married and has three daughters and a son. Address: Box 240, Route 3, Carmel, Calif.

Serving in the Far East as a First Lieutenant in the Air Force, William W. Jemison, Jr. '56 lists his war record as "fighting Tokyo traffic." Bill can be reached through his home address, 2920 Fairway Drive, Birmingham 13, Ala.

Freshmen Hard at Work On Barbecue Pit

FROM THE PLEDGE CLASS

The pledge class of Alpha Delta Phi, besides working around the house making general repairs and improvements, is currently working on what it feels to be a very worthwhile project. This project is the construction of a barbecue pit and stone patio.

To start from scratch and build something for the house that will give pleasure to everyone concerned is what really brings us into a close-knit group. Only through the cooperation of our entire class could we hope to accomplish such a large project as this.

For our more carefree moods, we can build spirit of a different nature by working on the Alpha Delta Phi fire engine. We have recently bought the engine from the seniors of the house, and are already making plans to get it running in peak performance.
